

WILD, WILD WILLIE

IT'S THE OLD WEST COME TO LIFE
WHEN NASH TOURS WILLIE NELSON'S
LUCK, TEXAS, RANCH.

PHOTOS BY LISA WALKER

DRINKIN' AND GAMBLIN'

An opry house and dance hall featuring a bar serving moonshine cocktails to guests. (Far right) Willie often assembles his buddies to play cards inside the property's main building, the Luck World Headquarters.

IN 'N' OUT OF LUCK

During the South by Southwest Music Festival in March, Willie's Luck, Texas, ranch—an old Western movie set where Willie's 1986 film Red Headed Stranger was shot—doubled as a concert venue for the Heartbreaker Banquet, an all-day showcase of country and rock's hottest acts. Ever the gracious host, Willie also took the stage (left).

HALLELUJAH IN THE HILL COUNTRY

Willie's ranch even has its own little white church, which hosted more intimate concerts during the Heartbreaker Banquet. The chapel has served as the backdrop for various photo shoots, for both Willie and his fellow outlaw Billy Joe Shaver.

